County to Pass Goal Of R. C. Roll Call

The prediction that Adams county will enable the county chapter of the Red Cross to reach its Roll Call goal of 2,700 members was sent today to William Carl Hunt, acting manager of the eastern area at Washington, D. C., by Miss Margaret McMillan, executive secretary of the county chapter.

To date reports on file at the chapter office show 1,517 countians enrolled as members by contributions which amount to $2,399.55. On the basis of last year's reports from communities which have not yet made their returns for this year, attainment of the goals for membership and contributions seems certain.

A number of communities are passing 1939 figures, while in only a few instances have reports in the current drive dropped below last year's reports and then only by comparatively small amounts.

HUNTERS FLOCK TO MOUNTAINS SEEKING DEER

Several Countians Re- port Kills; 3 Deaths in State

Adams county's mountains literally were swarming today with deer hunters as the big game season opened at 7 o'clock this morning. Over the week-end many hunting camps filled up and this morning automobiles carried hundreds of nimrods west and north through Gettysburg toward favorite hunting sections in the South mountains.

Although fewer hunters have been licensed in Adams county this year than last, the open deer season, which nearly 2,000 county sportsmen sought without success to prevent, was believed to have attracted additional hunters to this county, with some nearby counties closed to deer hunters.

County Treasurer Ray J. Kitzmiller has sold 2,715 hunting licenses this year as compared with 3,500 up to December 1 of last year.

Explosion Destroys Tacoma Powder Plant

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 2 (AP)—Four men were reported killed or seriously injured early today in an explosion which destroyed the mixing plant at the Columbia powder company, 15 miles south of here.

Company officials refused to discuss the blast but Under-Sheriff Clyde Knowles said the coroner had been sent to the blast scene after the company revealed that four men were working in the building.

The blast destroyed but one building, the mixing plant, which was isolated from offices and storage structures.

The explosion occurred shortly after the men went to work at 7 a. m.

Identity of the men in the building was not disclosed.

"The company is withholding their names pending arrival of the coroner and a more complete identification by company officials," Knowles said.

It was the second powder plant explosion in this area in the past week. A black powder unit of the DuPont powder works exploded last Thursday.

FR. M'CORMACK TELLS ELKS TO PRACTICE AIMS

Mt. St. Mary's College Officer Speaks at Memorial

Members of the Gettysburg Lodge of Elks were urged to adhere to and practice the four cardinal objectives of the Order—Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity—by the Rev. Fr. Robert A. McCormack, treasurer of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, in his memorial oration at the 1940 memorial services in the local lodge rooms Sunday afternoon.

"A society is as strong as the fidelity of its members," Father McCormack reminded. "In fidelity we have unity; without it we have disorder. Fidelity must live in our lives, our behaviour must show it always and no sacrifice is too great if our principles are true," he said.

Father McCormack substituted at the last hour for the Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock, pastor of St. Francis Xavier church, who suffered a severe attack of laryngitis and was unable to speak.

College Quartette Sings

Mrs. S. F. Snyder, organist of Christ Lutheran church, presided at the piano for all musical selections. The Gettysburg College choir quartet, comprising Robert L. Richards, R. Taintor Smith, Jr., F. Richard McLaughlin and George M. Herschberger, sang the hymns. The Rev. Seth C. Morrow, pastor of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church gave the invocation and benediction.

More than 260 members of the lodge and visitors attended the services. Visitors were seated first in the large room and members of the Order, each wearing a white carnation, entered in a body. Three-color souvenir memorial service programs were presented to each person present.

Father McCormack's address follows:

"It is indeed a pleasure to be here on this occasion. I regret, however, that my presence is due to the fact that your friend and fellow townsman, Father Stock, who was to address you, is suffering from a severe case of laryngitis. I trust that my thoughts will echo his sincere concern and desire to serve.

Commends Local Lodge

"The Elks of Gettysburg are to be congratulated on this beautiful home which is a monument to their zeal in the promotion of social life in this community. They may well be proud of the appointments through which the young and old may gather and build up characters in keeping with the fundamental principles upon which this great society is founded.

"We assemble here today, however, not to laud the living; rather to pay tribute to the memory of your brother Elks whom God in His divine wisdom has seen fit to call to their eternal award. It is fitting that we should be here for what these departed are to us today we may be to others on the morrow. It is in keeping with the fraternal ideal of your fraternity to remember those who have preceded you in the labors of life and that you bow your head in humble prayer in their memory.

"At the hour of eleven, just as the minutes of the new day creep upon us, it is your custom to hesitate in the activities of your life and give a moment wherein you swiftly fly through the archways of time and see again those of your companions, and all, who have gone on to where the Father has builded many mansions for His children. May it not be too that at this the hour of eleven a prayer of thanks floats heavenward for the blessings of the day and a hope for the tomorrows. Remembering the dead is not common to men. In the busy rush of affairs we have little time, so it seems, to recall those who have passed to their eternal reward. The immediate members of one's family store in their hearts the grief that comes when a devoted one is called home. Others offer their sympathy and feel not until death strikes in their homes or comes close to one's self. Such is the nature of human hearts that we shun all that does not bring happiness, little knowing that even though we possessed all the riches, happiness, fame and honor the world might bestow we would still be far from completely happy. The fear of losing part or all would haunt us with worry.

Service Enriches Mind

"Thus this custom of a memorial service, wherein the Elks cherish the memory of their departed brothers, is a beautiful and praiseworthy one. It brings vividly to one's mind the reality of living which is to die. It enriches the mind with memories of the good which has been accomplished by those who have gone before and should cause all to resolve that the principles on which this

Conewago Deanery Holds "Day of Recollection"

A "Day of Recollection" was held by the Conewago Deanery of the National Council of Catholic Women, Sunday, at St. Joseph's academy, McSherrystown, in which 127 women participated. In addition to representatives from the eight parishes of the Conewago Deanery, there were additional guests from neighboring counties and Maryland. The diocesan president, Mrs. R. A. The one-day retreat opened with mass at 8:30 o'clock. During the day various conferences and meditations were conducted by the Rev. Frederic O'Connor, S.J., of Woodstock college, Woodstock, Maryland.

The speaker stressed the importance and necessity of love for one another, citing that the basis of all love and unity is the foundation for a happy life and a happy home. NEW WAGE-HOUR LAW APPLIED TO APPLE PACKERS

Firms With Ten or Fewer Workers Exempted

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—The wage-hour administration's revised regulation of what constitutes an exempted area of production went into effect today for the handling and packing of apples and pears for market.

The revised definition was put into effect for the fruit and vegetable industry generally on October 1, but because it would have interfered with the peak season in apples and pears, it was deferred until December 1 for these commodities.

The revised regulation says employees of packing houses employing 10 or fewer workers in the handling and packing of fruit in the general vicinity of the farm where it is grown, are exempt from the provisions of the wage-hour law.

The previous definition limited the exemption to employees of firms located in rural areas or towns of less than 2,500 population which drew their commodities from farms within a radius of 10 miles.

Britain and Spain

Harrisburg, Dec. 2 (AP)—Highways of prime military importance probably will be given first consideration in a $6,000,000 federal-aid program in 1941, the state highways department announced today.

The state has estimated it would cost $27,000,000 to put 3,000 miles of roads in shape for military use.

Highways officials explained that the U. S. bureau of public roads is expected to set up an order of precedence for improvement of state highways under the federal-aid program effective early next year.

Approximately $1,127,000 will be apportioned for grade-crossing work, and about $725,000 for secondary roads, with the remainder to be spent on highways of greatest military importance, under tentative allocations, the department said.

The federal government's minimum requirements for military roads include a hard surface 18 feet wide, hard shoulders eight to ten feet wide capable of supporting heavily-loaded vehicles, and strong bridges.

T. C. Frame, chief engineer for the state department, has said most of Pennsylvania's primary highways meet these specifications, with the exception of shoulder width.

The federal government has designated a number of Pennsylvania highways as of prime military importance. These include:

The two main east-west highways, U. S. 22 (William Penn) and 30 (Lincoln).

U. S. 1, through Philadelphia from Trenton, New Jersey, to the south; with route 302 as an alternate route by-passing Philadelphia and going through West Chester, Paoli, Norristown, Doylestown and New Hope.

U. S. 19 between Erie, Pittsburgh and Morgantown, West Virginia.

U. S. 40 from Wheeling, West Virginia, to Washington, Pennsylvania, and through Uniontown to Cumberland, Maryland.

State route 219 between DuBois and Bradford.

State route 220 between Hollidaysburg, Bellefonte, Williamsport and Towanda, en route to Binghamton, New York.

U. S. 11 from Hagerstown, Md., up the Cumberland Valley and through Northumberland, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton to Binghamton, with route 111 shooting off through York to Baltimore.

Route 222 from Lancaster through Reading to Allentown and Bethlehem, joining U. S. 22 there.

Route 611 from Philadelphia to Easton, Stroudsburg and Scranton, with route 209 as a spur to Port Jervis, New York.

TEMPERATURES IN NOVEMBER ABOVE NORMAL

2 Inches of Snow Re- corded; 11 Freez- ing Days

Gettysburg's record of November weather closed Saturday evening on an unusually warm, wet month that brought more than two inches of snow and a 50-degree span of temperature that dipped 11 degrees below freezing and climbed to 71 degrees within a four-day period.

In spite of the fact that there were 11 days on which freezing temperatures were recorded, the month's daily average temperature was 3.7 degrees above the normal for November.

December arrived with low temperatures which reached 24 degrees above zero early this morning.

The warmest day last month was November 22 when the mercury climbed to 71 degrees and the coldest weather of the month was recorded here last Tuesday with a low of 21 degrees. The greatest range of temperature for any 24-hour period occurred on November 4 when maximum and minimum readings were separated by 37 degrees.

Precipitation totaled 5.21 inches last month with 1.47 inches of that total falling on November 2. A heavy snow which reached an official depth here of 2.2 inches contributed to the total which was 2.81 inches above normal for the month.

Of the 30 days last month 13 were clear, 12 were cloudy and five partly cloudy with Gettysburg receiving an estimated 47.6 per cent of available sunshine. Freezing temperatures have been recorded here daily for the last week.

DR. BUCK OPENS ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL CHURCH

Kin of Founder of Methodist Church Speaks Sunday

With an address by a great-grandson of a founder of the Gettysburg Methodist church, that congregation on Sunday morning opened the celebration of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of its founding. A second service was held Sunday evening and after special events on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, the anniversary observance will close with services next Sunday.

The church was filed for the Sunday morning service. The pastor, the Rev. D. Perry Bucke, was in charge of the service during which a solo was presented by Robert Richards and an anthem by the church choir.

Dr. Oscar McMillan Buck, the principal speaker, is a son of the late Carrie McMillan Buck, a former member of the Gettysburg church, who was the first missionary to be sent out by the New York board of the Methodist church and the fourth foreign missionary from the entire Methodist church when she went to India in 1871.

In the course of his address, Doctor Buck stated that his parents and his brothers and sisters served a total of 180 years in the foreign mission field. He is a great-grandson of Elizabeth Hetzer, one of the founders of the local church.

Honor Speaker's Mother

The Women's Society of Christian Service had a large basket of chrysanthemums in the church in memory of Doctor Bucke's mother. Doctor Bucke spoke on a text from the twelfth chapter of Luke: "Fear not, little flock, for it is your father's good pleasure to give you the Kingdom."

Dr. Lester A. Welliver, superintendent of the Harrisburg district of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist church, was the speaker at the Sunday evening service which also was largely attended. His theme was "My Faith."

In 1918 Doctor Welliver was student assistant pastor of the local church under the Rev. F. H. Brunstetter.

There was an anthem by the church choir and a solo by Richard McGlaughlin during the service. About 25 members of the Gettysburg camp, No. 112, of the Sons of Union Veterans were special guests at the service as the present occupants of the old G.A.R. post room, the first Methodist church in Gettysburg.

No special anniversary events are listed for this evening but Tuesday evening has been listed as Historical Night when the record of the Gettysburg church will be presented in seven episodes with a running account of the development of the congregation and illustrations to be thrown on the screen of old scenes, papers, leaders and historical objects. There will be special music by the Gettysburg college choir.

6 Former Pastors Invited

Thursday evening will be Former Pastors' and Banquet Night. Six former pastors are expected to attend and bring greetings.

Friday evening will be Young People's Night with the Rev. Fred Norris, Shippensburg, as the speaker.

The anniversary Communion service will be held next Sunday morning with the pastor in charge. New members will be received. The anniversary will end Sunday afternoon with the fourth annual advent organ recital by the Rev. Robert Browning Rau, church organist.

5,000 ITALIANS SURRENDER ON BALKAN FRONT

Germans Pound British Port of South- ampton

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Mackay Radio reported today the interception of distress calls from five vessels indicating they had been torpedoed 400 to 600 miles off the west coast of Ireland.

At least three of the vessels in distress were British.

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Dec. 2 (AP)—Sharp hostilities on French Indo-China's border with Thailand (Siam) apparently were continuing today, but colonial officials said they had no details of the fighting, evidently centered around the border town of Thakhek.

(By the Associated Press)

Surrender of 5,000 Italian troops, leaving a huge gap in the center of the 100-mile Balkan war front, was reported in Greek dispatches today, while in the battle of Britain, the Germans announced a violent new assault on the English shipping port of Southampton.

The Greeks said the wholesale surrender of Mussolini's fascist legion—the largest seizure of prisoners in the war—had signalled a general Italian retreat in the central sector.

"The victory, without exaggeration, is of exceptional importance, for the enemy line in this sector has been destroyed and all danger eliminated for us," a Greek dispatch said.

Retreat in Disorder

"Seventeen captured Italian officers disclosed that elite Italian legions which fought in Spain's civil war had taken part in the defense of this area and were retreating in disorder.

"One after another of the Italian columns abandoned their positions, leaving behind all sorts of equipment in large quantities."

On the home front, the Italians felt more sharply the pinch of the British sea blockade when their national dish, spaghetti, as well as flour and rice, went on the list of rationed food. Effective today, it was announced, consumers will be restricted to four and one-half pounds of these products monthly.

Restaurants were forbidden to serve spaghetti or rice on Tuesday and Saturday; other days, only at one meal.

The assault on Southampton (pop. 175,000) interrupted rail communication with London, Nazi quarters said, following up Saturday night's raid, which they asserted had left the big shipping port engulfed in "an ocean of flames."

Hitler's armies were reported on the move, meanwhile, in the troubled Balkans.

Dispatches from the Hungarian-Rumanian frontier said four fresh German divisions—approximately 60,000 men—were passing through Hungary en route to Rumania to quell increasing anarchy in Rumania, the scene last week of bloody green-shirt Iron Guard rioting and mass executions.

Previously, Berlin informed quarters said no further signatures were expected at present.

In the smash at Southampton, the British said about 200 Nazi warplanes roared across the channel, striking singly and in small waves. One of the raiders, it was said, swooped low to spray machine-gun tracer bullets into the housetops.

The British Press association said relays of bombers flew over the town, England's third busiest port, and "continued their mission of frightfulness" until early morning.

"The damage was considerable," it said. "Areas of the town are in ruins."

Auto and Truck Crash At Local Intersection

A charge of reckless driving was filed this afternoon against Frank Williams, colored, C.C.C. Camp No. 2, before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore as a result of a collision at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon at West Middle street and South Washington street. The charge was filed by Borough Officer Horace L. Bender after his investigation of the mishap.

Williams was reported to have been the driver of a government truck which crashed into the front of the 1940 model sedan of J. I. Burgoon, Springs avenue, as the latter was driving west on West Middle street. Williams had been driving east and attempted a left turn onto Washington street when he hit the Burgoon machine.

The Burgoon car had to be towed away. Damage to the truck was slight. Both Mr. Burgoon and Williams escaped injury.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

DON'T BE AFRAID

REGARDLESS of all the hazards a boy has to face in football, it is a great game—a game that calls for will, courage, stamina, quick thinking, and—heart.

For years I have followed the career of the Columbia University football team in New York City.
Not for any general reason, but for one specific reason—that you are always sure of seeing them fight to the limit, giving the last ounce of fight that is in them! And why? Well, for the main reason that they have a coach by the name of Lou Little. His boys know him—but not always the coach or the boys who play against his team.

There is a line that is possibly engraved across every Columbia football player's heart, and it reads something like this: "No matter whom you are playing, give them the best that is in you. Believe that you are going to win. Concede nothing.
Yield nothing. And don't be afraid!" Wouldn't you go a long distance to see such a group of men so imbued, face another? The past season I drove over 500 miles to see this team in a contest—and now I know why they won. But I had to know about Louis Little, their coach, first!

Don't be afraid! Three simple words—but they have inspired millions of people and written millions of pages of history. Wendell Willkie said them, even when he realized that he had just been defeated for the Presidency of the United States.
But he added three other significant words. "Don't Be Afraid," he said, and "Never Give Up." It is easy to understand his inspiring leadership, even in temporary defeat. Such men are never defeated in their hearts. And the leadership goes on to their conquered goal.

Don't you ever give up! No matter what the circumstance, no matter what the temptation, no matter how deep in discouragement, or despair, you may be. Don't—don't give up. Don't be afraid.

W. E. Henley didn't give up, even after they told him that his end was at hand. He would not give up!
And so he lived to write that immortal brief poem, "Invictus," in which he said that he was the Master of his fate and the Captain of his soul. He was not afraid.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Say 'Thank You!'"

Just Folks

RUNAWAYS

That little fellow comes up to me, Taking my finger, all afraid.
"Bampa, go to the store!" says he,
And knows that order will be obeyed.

Hastily off to the store we go, Fearful the hand of restraint may fall

And the mother sharply will tell us "no!"

If we should be met in the outer hall,

Much like a runaway pair we flee, Nor once for breath do we think to stop

Till we purchase fruit of the sugar plum tree

At that perfectly marvelous candy shop.

His mother frowns at our wilful ways,

Pretending she's cross as cross can be.

"You're just a couple of kids," she says,

"And Bampa the sillier, seems to me."

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
A National Watering Place—The Gettysburg—Our attention has just been invited to the analysis of the rare and valuable mineral spring situate on the McClean farm, about a mile west of this town.

The inadequacy of hotel accommodations at Gettysburg, for the visitors to the battlefield, constitutes a public grievance which it is difficult to redress.

Among the carbonated springs of Europe there is one, that of Viehy, at the headwaters of the Loire, which closely resembles that of Gettysburg.

It is only a few rods from a good road, the Chambersburg turnpike.
Such a hotel would be abundantly supplied with water.

This property, I understand from the proprietor (Robert G. McCreary, Esq., of Gettysburg), is in the market and may be obtained on reasonable terms compared with its real value.

Married, on the 16th ult., in this

Two More Soldiers Brought Home:
The bodies of Isaac Shends and John Kitzmiller were brought home on Monday week and on Friday following re-interred in Ever Green Cemetery with the honors of war.
They were both from this place.
Every few days the "muffled drum" is reminding us of those who have nobly offered their lives upon the altar of their country, and calling us to their graves to drop a tear to their memory.

The remains of Capt. Pfeiffer, who was killed at Cold Harbor, were brought home and re-interred at New Oxford, on Thursday, with military honors.

W.M. Gets First of
New Freight Engines

The first of 12 new fast freight locomotives, specially designed for the Western Maryland Railway company, has arrived in Hagerstown. It is expected one or two more of the locomotives eventually will be put on the Hagerstown-York run which passes through Gettysburg.

The new locomotives have new structural improvements in comparison to the older type now in use. The new engines will be more than 118 feet long and over 16 feet high with all the latest improved equipment. They will have greater boilers and far greater horsepower, which means the ability to maintain higher speeds when handling full tonnage.

The Sea Gull
"We can give him gifts of the sea. But how can we aid him on the land? We must ask help, and since this is Christmas Eve, some one must go to Santa Claus."

"Let me," said the mermaid. "I will be there and back while no more than five waves roll up on the beach."

"Please go," said Neptune. "But hurry. It is nearing midnight."

So the mermaid rose to the top of the sea. There she changed into a great, gray sea gull that flew through the sky swifter than the winds. She was headed for Santa's toyland at the North Pole. But she was sad.

"Life to me seems much like the work of a master weaver whose works adorn only the beautiful spots in the world. We labor through the days and years and either give or take from the world. A man who has espoused the principles of Brotherly Love, Justice, Charity and be a giver. We know joy only when we have spent ourselves and the more of ourselves that we give the richer we are in happiness. An Elk which the world may well be proud.

A tapestry in which there is the

Santa
And the Giant-Killer

Chapter One
THE FISHERMAN AND THE MERMAID

THERE was once a fisherman who lived in a warm and pretty country with his young, blond wife, who was called Inga. Their gray stone house stood on a hill and their garden ran down to the sea.

They would have been very happy but they had no children. And they wanted a son very badly.

But I shall tell you how they got a very fine son, indeed, and how after many adventures he became king.

It happened one Christmas Eve.
Saul, the fisherman, stayed out in his boat long after sunset that day because he hoped to find a pearl to give Inga for her Christmas present. He cast his nets many times.

The last time they were extremely heavy. Saul tugged and struggled until the nets hung clear of the water at the side of his boat.
And there he saw a strange sight.

In the nets lay a beautiful mermaid. Her long, green hair hung about her. And her slender tail flashed silvery-white as she lashed about trying to get free of the net.
"Please let me go," she cried to Saul.

Now there have been fishermen who have taken mermaids prisoner, and brought them to town. But mermaids soon die away from the sea. Saul had a kind heart and the mermaid was so pretty that he couldn't think of hurting her. So he quickly loosened his nets. They dropped back into the water and Saul could see the mermaid's tail flash in the waves as she leaped about glad to be free.

Saul sighed and said to himself,
"No pearl tonight, I may as well go home to dinner."

The Wish
But then he heard the mermaid calling to him. He leaned over the rail and saw her swimming alongside the boat.

"Saul," she cried, "because you have set me free I can grant your dearest wish. I am King Neptune's oldest and favorite daughter."

"Oh, sweet mermaid," cried Saul anxiously, "could you send Inga and me a son?"

"Go back to your cottage and wait," she cried, and disappeared.
Saul went home to tell Inga the good news. And the mermaid swam like a streak to the great sea castle of coral where King Neptune lives.

Neptune listened to his daughter's story and smiled. And this is why he smiled:

For a hundred years he had had a visitor. A young prince from the kingdom where Saul and Inga lived.
The prince's boat had gone down in a storm one night when Neptune was very angry. The mermaids had found him and brought him to Neptune's castle. He had lived there quietly ever since. He had grown no older but he had always longed to go back to the land.

"Now is the time to send our visitor home again," said Neptune.
And then he saw his daughter looking unhappy. She said, "It is right. But I shall miss him more than anyone in our kingdom."

Neptune patted her head. But he looked puzzled.

"We can give him gifts of the
sea. But how can we aid him on the land? We must ask help, and since this is Christmas Eve, some one must go to Santa Claus."

"Let me," said the mermaid. "I will be there and back while no
more than five waves roll up on the beach."

"Please go," said Neptune. "But
hurry. It is nearing midnight."

So the mermaid rose to the top of the sea. There she changed into
a great, gray sea gull that flew
through the sky swifter than the
winds. She was headed for Santa's beauty in charity and the somber strength of a steel-like background of Fidelity.

Honor Master Weavers

"How resplendent in tone, how sweet in simplicity, how noble in purity of actions, how humble in the quiet manner which must accompany the labor that goes into such a masterpiece. No sound of music, beauty of sunset or sunrise, no aroma of fragrant flower can compare to such a labor. It is to such master weavers that we pay tribute today; to men who loved their fellow men; to men who sought justice; to men who sought out the poor that aid might be given, and at the same time offended not against their brother; to men who served their God, country and fellowman.
These same hold out the challenge for all of us today to seize the torch of faith and carry on. You of this order cannot fail them."

"Brotherly Love"

"Brotherly Love: If we turn the pages of the New Testament we will find beautiful passages which have been called the Sermon on the Mount. In it we have the essence of all that man need know if he wishes to make this world a better place wherein to live. It breathes the technique of brotherly love. Life at its best is severe enough, each has his own trials, sufferings and worries. How all would be eased if brotherly love were the practice of all in a community. What success would attend our community efforts and the organizations for human welfare if we could eliminate the un-Christian and un-American jealousies and hates that rise above the common good. Judge not a man by his creed, race or class; father judge by the good he does, and be ever mindful that brotherly love demands that we nowise disturb the conscience of our fellow men. A fundamental tenet of our Constitution is based upon the doctrine of brotherly love. In these days especially we must practice that tenet.

Justice

"Your second watchword is Justice.
Justice is to grant every man that which is his due. We may not herefore defraud one of his property or good name. It demands honesty in all our business and social activities. For the Elk to do otherwise is to betray his order, one of the noblest in this noble land.
But this is not all. It is a betrayal of his God and Country. Justice resides in the heart and not according to man made laws. We may violate the laws written on our law books and escape, but we cannot escape the All-seeing eye of the Author of Justice on His heavenly throne. Be it little or much, to retain ill-gotten goods from any is to do violence to Justice.

Fidelity

"A chain is as strong as its weakest link; a society is as strong as the fidelity of its members. In fidelity we have unity, without it we have disorder. One of the most hated terms we may place on any man is to say that he cannot be trusted. Disloyalty is almost as ugly as the brand of Cain. History is replete with anathemas against the traitor. How sad is the story of a Benedict Arnold? Yet despite its sadness how little is the sympathy we may bear towards such a one.

So fidelity must live in our lives, our behavior must show it always and no sacrifice is too great if our principles are true. The great poet has put it well: 'to thine own self be true then thou canst not be false to any man;' hence fidelity begins at home and spreads from our characters until it is a part of all we come in contact with. The Elk holds fast to this principle: faithful to God, Country and Order.

Charity

"And now to the greatest of all —Charity—. There is no virtue that transcends this one. First it means a love of God, then of neighbor and of self. Secondly it means philanthropy, that is, giving material aid to those less fortunate than ourselves. Both are excellent yet the second naturally has its origin in the first; for if we love our neighbor as ourselves we cannot help but assist him in his hour of need. If we love God we cannot fail to love our neighbor. Charity in our temporal world may be summed in the Golden Rule, 'to do unto others as we would have them do unto us.' Unless we practice this virtue in the name of God it loses much of its value.
He who in secret succors the poor, sick and outcast in the name of the Father shall be rewarded greatly in the kingdom of heaven; he who is charitable for the applause of men receives his reward in that applause. Charity is supernatural and belongs in the realm of God's kingdom; philanthropy is temporal and material and belongs in the hands of men. Both are blessed—thrice blessed even as the gentle dews from heaven—as the immortal bard puts it.

Serious Responsibilities

"To the Elk, then, there is serious responsibilities, to fulfill the essence of these principles takes us from the common to the sublime. It means that all is not for the purpose of recreation but that in a fraternal order there must be to a greater degree serious thought and effort.

"Today as we commemorate those brothers who have practiced these principles let us bow our heads and in their name ask that Almighty God may bless us with the strength to carry on the serious purposes of this order, that so doing our nation may endure that our recreational activities may also be blessings from Him on high.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

—By Medora Field—

YESTERDAY: Aunt Maggie was murdered in the early hours of the week-end party Sally and Bill were giving to celebrate the engagement of Claire and Bob.
But the house was cut off from the world all night, and even now, in the morning, the police have not yet arrived from Atlanta. The whole party is looking for a clue to the secret room Aunt Maggie mentioned before she died. In a book in the library, the trail begins to look hot.

REAL CLUE

"I THINK that's sort of silly," I said as he came down the ladder, and they helped me up. "Where is it? Oh yes!"—and with shaking fingers I removed the call-bound volume from the shelves and climbed back down again.

The book opened easily in my hands. The pages thus revealed showed plainly the imprint of a marker or paper which was there no longer.

I shook the book in a kind of frenzy, ruffling the pages. Something fell out and a

All in all, he's retrieved about 25 letters after much delving into banana skins, orange peel and similar refuse.

HUNTERS FLOCK TO MOUNTAINS SEEKING DEER

Several Countians Report Kills; 3 Deaths in State

3 Hunters Die
(By the Associated Press)
Many Pennsylvania hunters bagged their deer within a few minutes after shooting became legal at 7 a. m. today, but opening of the season was quickly marred by tragedy.

Stanley Ford of Turtle Point (McKean county) fell fatally wounded by a bullet from a companion's gun while hunting about eight miles from the New York border in McKean county.

A stray bullet killed Thomas J. Long, 56, of DuBois Road, about two hours after the season opened while he was hunting in Clearfield county north of DuBois.

Two other hunters, Charles Wargo, 17, Johnstown and Jerry Lear, Jr., 18, Robinson, were wounded by unidentified hunters in the early hours of the season. Wargo was shot in the right leg and Lear in the left arm.

Reports showed that more than 100 deer were killed during the first four hours in the section comprising Cambria, Somerset, Indiana and Bedford counties. Seven deer were reported slain before noon in the Ligonier mountain district of Westmoreland county.

Kills Deer in 2 Minutes
Another Hunter, H. G. Beatty, of Meadville, collapsed and died of a heart attack last night while helping push a stalled automobile from a snow drift near Warren.

Among the first successful hunters were Calvin Wolfe, of Pinegrove, and Neil Clyde, of Halitton. Wolfe stepped from his car in Schuylkill county, raised his gun and brought down a large buck when the season was only two minutes old. Clyde's four-point buck also was killed at 7:02 and was the first reported kill in Elk county.

Within the first three hours, Berks county hunters killed at least ten in that and adjacent counties, the prize being a 250-pound, 10-point buck brought down by Jacob C. Geissler near Bernville.

Many Hunters Out
A sportsman at Kane reported that "the most hunters in history" were on hand in the forests of that district for the opening of the season, many of them brought out by the fact that it was legal to kill does as well as bucks.

Deep snow hindered hunters in the Warren area, although "lots of deer" were reported available throughout the northwestern counties and hunters were out in great numbers.

The state-wide season on both does and bucks will continue until December 14. Among the hunters with guns were a few armed only with bows and arrows.

Harold J. Stahle, of New Cumberland, president of the Pennsylvania State Archery association, took some of his followers into the northern tier counties to hunt on a special preserve in Forest and Potter counties.

Commission Reports
There's game enough for all, the game commission reports; in fact it asked hunters to "thin out" deer in sections where they are "eating the farmer out of house and home." The limit is one to a hunter, six to a party of six or more.

A scarcity of natural forage in some sections, and an over-abundance of deer, impelled the commission to open the season to hunting of all deer except those with only a visible spike antler or antlers without points. However, it abided by sportsmen's petitions to close Cumberland, Juniata and Fulton counties to doe-hunting.

The commission repeated its frequent appeals for hunters to handle their firearms carefully, wear plenty of bright red, and "constantly bear in mind that the two principal causes" of hunting accidents such as killed 22 men last season "are carelessness and greed."

18 Teachers, Seeking Back Pay, Go on Strike

Pottsville, Pa., Dec. 2 (AP)—The two public schools in Reilly township, attended by 400 pupils, were closed today by a strike of 18 teachers, unpaid since June because the board has been unable to collect taxes on coal lands.

The teachers voted yesterday to withdraw their services after being informed by the state department of Public Instruction that the commonwealth had forwarded all funds to which the district is entitled.

John M. Cavanaugh, art instructor, said the teachers would return only when a satisfactory arrangement has been made for meeting their salaries.

Rosalyn Randle Given Probation in Mail Fraud

Rosalyn Randle was placed on probation in United States District court in Washington, D. C., on Saturday, but not before she received a tongue lashing from Justice James W. Morris.

The self-styled international authority on the secrets of diet, health and charm, had pleaded guilty to seven mail fraud charges. She is now serving an eight-month sentence for a false pretense conviction here.

Warned by Judge
Justice Morris promised to put her in prison for two to six years if she ever violates her probation by promising to cure incurably ill people by peddling nostrums through the mails.

"You must stop this practice," he told her. "It is something that shocks one to think the credulity and pathetic hope of those suffering from incurable disease should be played upon for profit."

Promises to Reform
"I promise you that a strict surveillance will be maintained over your activities. Any breach of conduct will mean jail for you."

With tears in her eyes, Miss Randle promised to reform. But freedom is still a long way off. She has six more months to serve on the first conviction and Texas authorities are waiting to take her to their state to try her on a similar charge there.

Crash Near New Oxford Brings Code Charge

A charge of failing to give proper signal of his intention of making a left turn will be filed before Justice of the Peace Gerald Orndorff, Oxford township, against Elmer L. Nace, 67, Hanover, as a result of a collision Saturday morning on the Lincoln highway a short distance from New Oxford.

The Nace car collided with a machine operated by Harold G. Stitzinger, Jenkintown, as Nace attempted to pass. Damage was not serious and no one was injured.

Private W. N. Leaser, of the Gettysburg detail of the state motor police, investigated.

PROTEST MOVIE ORDINANCE

Pittsburgh (AP)—Medical and industrial leaders have joined in a protest against passage of a proposed city ordinance that would ban amateur movie photographers from showing their reels outside their homes. Dr. Gustav F. Berg of St. John's general hospital claims the ordinance would handicap the medical profession by forbidding surgeons, physicians and technicians to use movies to observe the progress and results of disease. The ordinance, proposed by a representative of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and moving machine operators, provides only licensed operators would be permitted to exhibit films outside the home.

MEXICAN LEADER BACKS DEFENSE OF HEMISPHERE

Camacho Is Inaugurated for 6-Year Term

Mexico City, Dec. 2 (AP)—Mexico embarked today on a strong policy of continental solidarity backed by her new president, 43-year-old General Manuel Avila Camacho, who was inaugurated yesterday for a six-year term.

"The entire continent, united under the same principles and covering well every weak spot in it, shall render itself invincible," the nation's 46th president declared in his inaugural address.

"It does not matter that many of the nations are weak and small. The fact remains that our cause is a common one and that our national economies, great and small, the one joined to the other, will strengthen themselves and give the continent an economic power which no one shall be able to break down."

Henry A. Wallace, Vice President-elect of the United States, who attended the ceremony as the representative of his country, declared in a broadcast to the United States later that he was in complete agreement with Avila Camacho's "lofty sentiments of Pan American solidarity." He compared the sentiments with those often expressed by President Roosevelt.

The new president, a conservative, also announced plans to create ministries of labor and marine, the latter, he said, to enable Mexico to respond better to the responsibility of defending her coast and establishing her own naval bases.

Some in the audience regarded this as an answer to reports that the United States was seeking to establish bases in Mexico.

The inauguration was free of disorder. About 30,000 soldiers, police, firemen, military cadets, armed peasants and militarized workers and public employees guarded the national palace and the chamber of deputies where the ceremony took place.

Gettysburg Graduate Now Marine Officer
